

The News is Dead.
Long Live the News.

Re-thinking the article
and news presentation

Editors don't know what we read

- Same front page for everyone!
  - Legacy of print
- Articles focus on narrative, not news
- News doesn't understand its readers

Front pages have all the power

- Social media is great at deep-liking
- Reporters spend time lobbying for homepage features so they can make numbers.
  - Does that sound like journalism?
- So front pages get more noisy.

One Front Page

- “All the news that’s fit to print”
  - Really?
- Lack of diversity and analysis
- Democracy needs more voices, more opinion, more engagement

Aggregation is not the (entire) answer

- I love Techmeme. Great aggregation.
- Why not take it one level deeper?
  - Aggregate at a news level, not at the subject matter level.
  - EG: Tech Industry > Jobs Death

NOT SURE IF TROLLING

OR JUST STUPID

Have all the Pixels, use just a few

- We're still designing for 800x600.
- There are tons of real estate if we can think of varying the levels of engagement
